Why ICCB matters

When

23-27 July, 2017

Where

Cartagena de Indias
 Convention Center,
 Colombia

Who

More than 2,000 conservation leaders and students from nearly 100 countries

Over 20 sponsors and 30 exhibiting organizations

Current and future decision-makers meet at ICCB including executive directors, policy makers, world leading conservation scientists and professors, students and educators, project managers

Institutions: universities, government agencies, non-governmental organizations, industry, private foundations and organizations, and publishers

ICCB is the largest networking platform for anyone interested in conservation and the latest research, development and challenges in conservation science and practice:

~2,000 abstracts presented

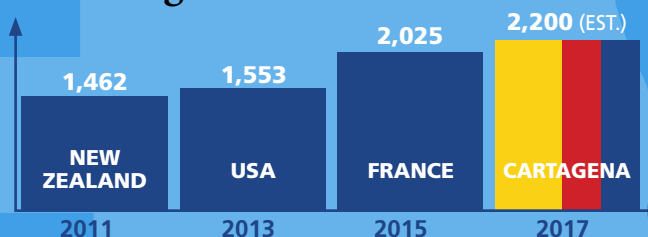

Students: ~1/3 of ICCB participants represent the future of conservation

Sessions: symposium, workshops and roundtables, training courses, oral and poster presentations, plenary sessions, and field trips

Forefront of conservation science and conservation management:

- Top 10 Most Selected Categories at Abstract Submission (ICCB 2015): Bridging the Gap between Scientists, Stakeholders, and Managers; Conservation Genetics; Ecosystems Functions and Services; Conservation Politics and Policy; Human-Wildlife Conflicts; Ecology and Conservation; Landscape Conservation; Habitat Degradation and Fragmentation; Population Dynamics; and Alien and Invasive Species
- Growing interdisciplinary interest from SCB membership: Conservation and Technology; Conservation Marketing; Conservation and Religion; Urban Conservation; Citizen Science; Nutrition, Health and Conservation; Sociology, Psychology; Traditional Knowledge; Sustainable Agriculture etc.

AT THE WORLD'S LEADING CONFERENCE FOR CONSERVATION SCIENCE

The ICCB 2017 Conference Steering Committee invites you to join us at the Society for Conservation Biology's 28th International Congress for Conservation Biology.

Our mission matters! Society for Conservation Biology (SCB) is a global community of nearly 5,000 members from over 140 countries dedicated to advancing the science and practice of conserving Earth's biological diversity. For over 30 years, the Society has taken science off the shelf by elevating the research of our members, using it to educate decision-makers, and provide a forum for practitioners to advance conservation science and practice.

Sponsors and Exhibitors at ICCB 2017:

- Get in front of a global audience of more than 2,000 conservation practitioners, decision-makers, and leaders in the field.
- Host training sessions, focus groups or workshops and sponsor events such as the Career Fair and plenary sessions
- Network and show your commitment to biodiversity conservation
- Support SCB and its members in influencing global policy, developing positive collaboration and aligning with regional priorities to achieve greater conservation outcomes, developing training opportunities and inclusion for anyone interested in conservation

This is going to be a great year!

ICCB returns to the tropics for the first time in ten years. It also is the first time ICCB will be held in the Tropical Andes Biodiversity Hotspot, creating priceless opportunities for our members from Latin America and the Caribbean to meet, learn from, collaborate and celebrate achievements with SCB members from around the globe. Local organizations such as WCS Colombia, the Instituto Humboldt, Parques Nacionales Naturales de Colombia and the Universidad de los Andes are already committed.

For the first time, ICCB will be a fully sustainable congress. With the help of Guy Bigwood, MCI Group Sustainability Director, SCB wishes to be leading the sustainable conference effort.

We are setting new standards in Conservation Science and Sustainable Conference.

Join us!

“One of the reasons that [inspired] me to participate is a personal commitment to return through SCB the experience and knowledge that I got during all those years as biologist and environmental manager.”

—Myriam Paola Salazar Jaimes, Environmental and Biological Zoo Coordinator, Bioparque Ukumari, Colombia
